Since 1987, Nannies International has had one focus: matching the right nanny with the right family. An innovator in the match-making business with the hugely successful launch of Nannies4Hire.com and most recently, its sister site, Babysitters4Hire.com, finding childcare has entered the 21st century with freedom and ease. Founded by Candi Wingate, who started her career as a nanny herself for a family with 5 children, including newborn twins, the company has created easy-to-use online databases to match caregivers with families. As a mother herself, Candi speaks from experience to over 500,000 nannies and families who are registered for the service. Candi's experience, which includes her affiliation with a successful Nanny Placement Agency, has been tapped by The Dr. Phil Show, TLC's John and Kate Plus Eight and ABC's SUPERNANNY casting.

Using a geographic database, potential families can search for nannies and babysitters by zipcode. From that pool, they can then choose the caregiver that best meets their family's needs from the information that the care provider has completed online when they registered. Families can then match their priorities with those of the nanny or babysitter.

Offering 3 levels of service, from full access to the nanny database to providing a background check on the potential nanny, Nannies4Hire.com and Babysitters4Hire.com provides families with all the resources they need to have peace of mind while choosing the right person to care for their children. Considered one of the most successful and fastest growing companies in the industry, Candi's leadership to families now includes her new book, 100 Tips for Nannies & Families published this summer.
